

Department of Sociology and Anthropology
 School of Social Sciences, Loyola Schools
 Ateneo de Manila University

TENTATIVE COURSE OFFERINGS***
 First Semester, SY 2021-2022

GRADUATE
ANTH 211.2	Introduction to Cultural Anthropology   Dr. J. Canuday This course provides a multi-faceted perspective of humanity through the discussion of various human activities, attitudes and beliefs that revolve around economic and political life, family and kinship, and those that result in social/culture change.
ANTH 292/SOAN 292/SOCIO 292/ SOCDV 292	Research Strategies   Dr. J. Canuday This is a course on the logic of empirical research in sociology and anthropology. It examines the suitable approaches to a variety of typical research problems; their advantages and limitations; and their translation into specific plans for investigation.
SOAN 212.2	Origins of Inequality   Dr. E. Eviota This course discusses inequality as a matter of patterned structures of unequal groups and not as something that is randomly distributed between individuals. The course looks at inequalities between groups with regard to wealth, social status, gender, race/ethnicity, age; as well as inequalities between nation-states.
SOAN 215.5	Gender Relations   Dr. E. Eviota This course discusses the historically specific forms that relations between women and men take in a given society. Topics include gender identity, sexuality, traffic in women, sexual offenses, a historical analysis of women's subordination, the economy and the family-household system, and gender and the Church.

SOAN 223	Risk and Resilience: Focus on Climate Disasters, Development, and Humanitarian Action   Dr. E. Porio  Urbanization, development, land-use decisions, and social/political policy dynamics have increased the risk and vulnerability of societies to natural and man-made disasters. Social-political and economic processes/interventions designed to reduce social vulnerabilities and increase their resilience also reconfigure the disaster management cycle from mitigation, preparation, response and recovery. This course examines how the societal construction of risk, vulnerability and resilience intersects with development initiatives and disaster planning/policy efforts to reduce social vulnerabilities and reconfigure the initiatives of communities/groups to increase as well as promote resilience and reduce their own vulnerabilities.
SOAN 292.1	Research in Social Systems
SOAN 296	Comprehensive Examinations
SOAN 299.1	Thesis I
SOAN 299.2	Thesis II
SOAN 299.4	Oral Defense
SOAN 299.5	Residency
SOAN 299.6	Final Paper Submission
SOAN 299.7	Final Paper Submission
SOAN 399.7	Final Paper Submission
SOCDV 203.2	Theories Of Development
SOCDV 240.1	International Development, International Relations, and Geopolitics   Dr. K. Isezaki and Dr. S. Ishikawa
SOCDV 296	Comprehensive Examination
SOCDV 298.1	Project Management 1: Design
SOCDV 298.2	Project Management 2: Implementation
SOCDV 298.3	Project Management 3:Public Presentation
SOCIO 201	Introduction To Sociological Perspectives
SOCIO 392.4	Proseminar in on Methodology   Dr. J. Canuday  This course is a critical examination of sociological and anthropological methodology as used in existing empirical works.
SOCIO 293.1/SOCIO 393	Fundamental Statistics/ Proseminar on Quantitative Analysis   Dr. M. Navarra and Ms. J. Claudio  This course discusses basic concepts and operations of statistics. Focus is on univariate and bivariate measures of association and inferences, and basic multivariate analysis. It introduces students to SPSS for Windows and emphasizes on the understanding and application of statistical concepts in social science situations.

SOCIO 396	Comprehensive Examinations
SOCIO 399.1	Dissertation I
SOCIO 399.2	Dissertation II
SOCIO 399.4	Oral Defense